

New Plymouth Contract Bridge Club

Lenovo Tablet Etiquette

Policy/Procedure

South should enter the contract, declarer and lead card immediately after the lead has been faced.

South should enter the result of the contract immediately after the end of the hand and should then place the tablet before East so it is oriented for him/her to read.

East is responsible for verifying the entry but may delegate this to West. Note: East is checking that it is the right board and the right contract played by the right player, and that the result is correct. East is NOT checking the score or the percentage. East should not advance the tablet to the next screen(s).

The other players at the table may wish to see the overall percentage, other scores and the possible contracts making. Best practice is for South to ensure the tablet is placed so that all the other players at the table can see these.

South is responsible for advancing the tablet, but should first check that no other player at the table wishes to look at this additional information.
